Snowed Under.

Bill Nye, of the Larimer, Wyoming Boomerang, a spicy republican sheet, thus unburies himself:

"We have met the enemy and we are his. We have made our remarks and we are now ready to listen to the gentleman from New York. We would have dug out, perhaps, and explained about New York, but when almost every State in the union rose up and made certain statements yesterday, we found that the job of explaining this matter thoroughly would be wearisome and require a great deal of time.

We do not blame the Democracy for this. We are a little surprised, however, and grieved. It will interfere with our wardrobe this Winter. With an overcoat on Wyoming, plug hat on Iowa, a pair of pantaloons on Pennsylvania and boots on the general result, it looks as though we would probably go through the Winter wrapped in a bed quilt and profound meditation.

We intended to publish an extra this morning, but the news was of such a character that we thought we could get along without it. What was the use of publishing an extra with a republican majority only in Red Butte?

The cause of this great democratic freshet in New York yesterday—but why go into details—we all have an idea why it was so. The number of votes would seem to indicate that there was a tendency towards democracy throughout the State.

Now in Pennsylvania, if you will look over the returns carefully—but why should we take up your valuable time offering an explanation of a political matter of the past.

Under the circumstances some would go and yield to the soothing influences of the maddening bowl, but we do not advise that. It would only furnish temporary relief, and the recoil would be unpleasant.

We resume our arduous duties with a feeling of extreme ennui, and with that sense of surprise and astonishment that a man does who has had a large brick block fall on him when he was not expecting it. Although we feel a little lonely to-day—having met only a few republicans on the street who were obliged to come out and do their marketing—we still hope for the future.

The grand old republican party—but that's what we said last week. It sounds hollow now and meaningless, somehow, because our voice is a little hoarse, and we are snowed under so deep that it is difficult for us to enunciate.

Now about those bets. If the parties to whom we owe bets—and we owe most everybody—will just agree to take the stakes, and not go into details; not stop to ask us about the state of our mind and talk about how it was done, we don't care. We don't wish to have this thing explained at all. We are not of an inquiring turn of mind. Just plain facts are good enough for us, without any harrowing details.

In the mean time, we are going to work to earn some more money to bet on the next election: Judge Folger and others, come over and see us when you have time and we will talk this matter over. Mr. B. Butler, we wish we had your longevity. With a robust constitution, we find that most any man can wear out cruel fate and get there at last. We do not feel so angry as we do grieved and surprised. We are pained to see the American people thus betray our confidence, and overthrow a large wardrobe into the hands of the relentless foe.

Muhlenberg county hasn't had any Justice of the Peace since the Spring of '74, at which time they all resigned, fearing imprisonment by the United States Court for refusing to levy the railroad tax. The county's business, what little there is of it, is transacted through the County Judge. —(Owensboro Messenger).

It is estimated that the humbug marriage associations have swept up $2,000,000 from various parts of Texas, a sum more than sufficient to run the public schools since the first association began business.

Strange but Common Facts.

That an occasional meal away from one's own house, and at another's table, relishes better than at home.

That people should ask to be delivered from "sudden death" and never pray to be spared a lingering death by inches exit.

That a man will travel miles, agonizing at every step from a hit of gravel or an obtrusive peg in his shoe before he will take it out.

That a man never knows what a weak, fickle and uncertain master he has in himself until he is at liberty to govern his own life and do as he pleases.

That when a poet or a philosopher dies, a dozen men and women try to kill themselves to his name and write themselves into fame by telling all they know about him.

That so many people forget the weather they experienced last year, and declare they "never saw such a Winter as this before. No, never!" What, never? No, never.

That histories written fifty years ago assert how the people of that time were living "at the apex of knowledge and enlightenment," which remark is sometimes repeated to-day.

That when a philosopher or scientist puts forth some new idea, all the wool gathering, the guesses and the manderings afterward by him about, around concerning that idea or truth, or semi-truth as the case may be, are often, by his admirers, regarded as most important and sacred words.

DOWN ON CONVENTIONS.—Conventions, at least for the time being, should be done away with. We need a change for a while. A primary election is the fair thing. Let the vote be prorated, giving each man just what he gets, and the longest pole will knock the persimmon. A few men, as a general thing, run the conventions, and they run them in their own interest. We believe the people ought to have a hand in this, and the best way to get them out is to have a primary election. Turn the candidates loose before the people and let them settle it, and then there will be no kicking. We believe in the people and not the politicians ruling this country, and the way for the people to rule it is to devise that means by which the candidates can be brought face to face with them so that they may say who is best qualified to act for them. —[Muhlenberg Echo.

An enthusiastic Canadian journalist, who has just got married, writes: "Of all the joys vouchsafed to man, in life's tempestuous whirl, naught approaches heaven like the company of a girl—a rosy, laughing, blushing girl; a frank, and good natured honest girl; a feeling, stirring, dashing, doting, smiling, smacking, jolly, jaunty, joyful, power poking, dear little duck of a girl; the funniest, fairest, roundest, ripest, roguishest, rarest, spiciest, squirmiest, squarest, best of girls, with drooping lashes half-concealing amorous flashes—with rosy cheeks and clustering curls, the sweetest and best of girls."

A NEW FRAUD.—An advertisement has been going the rounds which announces that the advertiser will on the receipt of twenty-five cents send to any address a copy of the finest engraving ever made of the late President Garfield. He keeps his word, and sends in return a five-cent postage stamp bearing the engraved likeness of Gen. Garfield. No finer picture of him was perhaps ever made, but the scheme is no less fraudulent. A gentleman of this city gave the information, but said nothing about who had been taken in. —[Lex. Press.

"John," said the cashier's wife, dropping into the bank in the midst of a shopping trip, "you forgot to leave me that money this morning." "What name?" asked the cashier, without looking up. "Name? Name?" exclaimed the lady, "I am your wife." "No doubt—no doubt," answered the cashier mechanically and going on with his writing, "but you will have to bring some one to identify you."

An Arkansas editor is retiring from the editorial control of a newspaper, said: "It is with a feeling of sadness that we retire from the active control of this paper, but we leave our journal with a gentleman who is able than we are, financially, to handle it. This gentleman is well known in this community. He is the sheriff."

The house fly is utterly insensible to pain, experiments show. So there is no particular way to get square with the insect, which, lingering in spite of cold weather, disturbs your morning nap, after you catch him.

Cornstalks as Fuel.

An Iowa farmer, who has both coal and wood on his farm, warms his house with cornstalks, and claims that they make the best and cheapest fuel he can get. He uses a large stove, and burns the stalks in tightly-bound bundles, weighing about forty pounds each. A bundle burns three hours (without flame) in an air-tight stove. The large stove offers so much radiating surface that it does not need to be very hot. Five bundles a day, or 600 for the Winter, suffice to keep the stove going and the room warm. The farmer, Mr. Ruggles, says: "I can bind up 600 bundles of cornstalks in two days alone. I couldn't chop the wood to warm this room in a week. Then in the Spring I have a load of strong ashes for my wheat field, while my neighbors have to cut up the same cornstalks to get them away from the harrow. It makes me smile when I hear about those idiots up in Minnesota with fifty-acre cornfields and still go cold or buy coal. Why, I'd rather burn cornstalks than cut maple wood within sight of the house."

When I first commenced reporting, after I left college, it was on the Evening Post. This was in 1854, when William Cullen Bryant, the poet, was the editor. I remember an interview with him which is perhaps worth recording here. In some sketch or report of mine which had been published the words ipse dixit were made use of. I was called into Mr. Bryant's room. "Mr. —," said he, "I wish to give you a hint. In that dictionary (pointing to Webster) you find some 40,000 words. I write, as you know, a good deal, and I am able to express all my thoughts in the English language. I would advise you never to use a Latin, French or any foreign word or phrase." It was a good lesson to me, though I thought at the time the old gentleman was hypercritical. —[Record and Gazette.

ONLY A LITTLE BIT OF MOTHER'S DRESS.—A little fellow from one of our charitable institutions was being taken to a New Jersey farm by an agent, the owners of the farm having had the boy "bound" to them for a term of years, when the agent noticed that the boy kept placing his hand inside of his jacket on his left side, and occasionally would peep within with a tender look. At last he said: "What have you got in there, my little friend?" "Oh, nothing, sir," he replied, "only a bit of my mother's dress, which I've sewed on my coat. It was the dress she had on when she died, and it kind of comforts me to touch it."

Tariff is only a roundabout way of spelling tax. The method of the thing is as roundabout as the spelling. A tax is laid on the property a man owns, and he pays it directly to the tax gatherer and knows what he is about. A tariff is laid on commodities he must consume, and is paid by him in a lump sum with the actual cost of the commodity, so that he doesn't know what he is about. He pays his tax as he pays a debt. He pays his tariff as he pays for the sand in his sugar. —[Philadelphia Record, Independent.

A Georgia opinion of the comet: "Grand in its pyrotechnical display, illimitable in the vastness of its immensity, it reminds us what a great country we live in, that can boast of such products, impossible to effete despotisms of the East, and the cold and barren regions of the bleak and frozen North."

A girl of Waukon, Iowa, being excessively fond of babies, borrowed one of a neighbor for the day. It fell into a fire and was burned to death. The girl was not immediately the cause of the accident, and yet she was so grieved and frightened by it that she died within an hour.

Married persons should learn patience. On the day that a divorce was granted to a Kansas woman, Mrs. Perkins, she was lying dead in the house, and her husband was hanging to the limb of a tree—one dying of heart disease and the other committing suicide.

An enormous bunch of grapes, carefully enclosed in a glass case, was shown through Michigan by a peddler who had for sale aprons from what he said was a vine of the same variety. The exhibit was at length discovered to be waxwork.

Twelve murders, ten suicides and a score or more shooting and cutting affrays have been committed in Cincinnati within the past thirty-six days. It would seem to be an easy task to get out a lively newspaper in Cincinnati.

A Soldier on Women.

If the country would have brave men let it teach its sons true knight-hood. Let it fill the hearts of its youth with respect and love for women as God's best gift to man. Let it remember that while man furnishes to his country the bone and muscle, it must look to the woman for the heart and soul.

I am speaking to men no longer young. Our best years are behind us. Looking back, can any one remember a great achievement or a good deed in doing which he has not had woman's encouragement, or an evil one in which he has not felt her earnest opposition?

We are moving on to the river which lies on the confines of life. Our comrades are mostly over, and we, the rear guard, must soon cross. May the years that yet remain to us be so spent that we will merit woman's smiles while here, and meet them when life is over in the gardens of God. —(Col. John Atkinson at the Army of Potomac Reunion.

MAKING FENCE POSTS LAST.—A writer in an exchange paper says: "I discovered many years ago that wood could be made to last longer than iron in the ground, but thought the process so simple that it was not well to make a stir about it. I have taken out baseboard posts after having been set seven years that were as sound when taken out as when first put in the ground. Time and weather seemed to have no effect on them. The posts can be prepared for less than two cents apiece. This is the recipe: Take boiled linseed oil and stir in pulverized coal to the consistency of paint. Put a coat of this over the timber and there is not a man that will live to see it rot."

Joe Howard is a better judge of beauty than Oscar Wilde. He says of Mrs. Langtry: "Her features in repose are not shapely; her figure is up and down, her arms are homely and her elbows knobby. When she smiles she displays two rows of perfect teeth. Her voice is low, well modulated and very sweet. She is decidedly not a great actress, but belongs to the Agnes Ethel lovey-dovey school, winsome and attractive. I can cite a dozen handsomer ones on the stage, and in the audience there sat fifty who need not dread comparison."

He bowed to her across the table, smirked, washed his hands in invisible soap and water, and said: "Excuse me; I think I harmed you at Saratoga last Summer—my name is Moses." "I cannot recall your face," she airily answered, "but your name is quite familiar."

SIMMONS' LIVER REGULATOR
For Biliousness, Constipation, Sick Headache, Chronic Biliary Disorders, Jaundice, Impurity of the Blood, Fever and Ague, Malaria, and all Diseases caused by Derangement of Liver, Bowels and Kidneys.

SYMPTOMS OF A DISEASED LIVER.
Bad Breath; Pain in the Side, sometimes the pain is felt under the Shoulder-blade, mistaken for Rheumatism; general loss of appetite; flowers generally pass, sometimes alternating with hard; the head is troubled with pain, is dull and heavy, with considerable loss of memory, accompanied with a painful sensation of tearing and smarting something which ought to have been done; a slight, dry cough and flushed face is sometimes an attendant, often mistaken for consumption; the patient complains of weakness and debility; nervous, easily startled; feet cold or burning, sometimes a prickly sensation of the skin exists; spirits are low and despondent, and, although satisfied that exercise would be beneficial, yet one can hardly summon up fortitude to try it—in fact, dreads every remedy. Several of the above symptoms attend the disease, but cases have occurred when but few of them existed, yet examination after death has shown the Liver to have been extremely diseased.

It should be used by all persons, old and young, whenever any of the above symptoms appear.

Persons Traveling or Living in Unhealthy Localities, by taking a dose occasionally to keep the Liver in healthy action, will avoid all Malaria, Bilious attacks, Diarrhea, Nausea, Drowsiness, Depression of Spirits, etc. It will regulate the liver, cleanse the blood, and be a most refreshing beverage.

If you have eaten anything hard of digestion, or feel heavy after meals, or sleepless at night, take a dose and you will be relieved.

Time and Doctors' Bills will be saved by always keeping the Regulator in the House!

For whatever the ailment may be, a thoroughly safe, purgative, alterative and tonic can never be out of place. The remedy is harmless and does not interfere with business or pleasure.

IT IS PURELY VEGETABLE.
And has all the power and efficacy of Calomel or Quinine, without any of the injurious after effects.

A Governor's Testimony.
Simmons' Liver Regulator has been in use in my family for some time, and I am satisfied it is a valuable addition to the medical science.

J. C. SHERMAN, Governor of Ala.
Hon. Alexander H. Stephens, of Ga., says: "I have derived some benefit from the use of Simmons' Liver Regulator, and wish to give it a further trial."

"The only thing that never fails to relieve me is Simmons' Liver Regulator. I have tried every other medicine, but never have found anything to benefit me to the extent Simmons' Liver Regulator has. I feel that it is a real medicine, and would advise all who are similarly affected to give it a trial as it seems the only thing that never fails to relieve."

P. M. JOSEPH, Minneapolis, Minn.
Dr. T. W. Mason says: "From actual experience in the use of Simmons' Liver Regulator in my practice I have been and am satisfied to use and prescribe it as a purgative medicine."

TESTIMONIALS OF LINCOLN CO. FARMERS!

THE ALBION
HARROW, CULTIVATOR & SEEDER.

Three First-Class Implements Combined in One.

STANFORD, KY., Oct. 31, 1882.

GEO. D. WEAREN—Dear Sir:—The Albion Spring Tooth Harrow, Cultivator and Broadcast Seeder purchased of you is all you claim for it. I am well pleased with my purchase. As a Harrow and pulverizer it is the best I have ever seen; as a Seeder, I would not exchange for any other, and I am also confident that it will prove valuable as a Cultivator.

MR. GEO. D. WEAREN—Dear Sir:—I have one of the Albion Spring Tooth Sulkey Harrows, Cultivators and Broadcast Seeders. I am well pleased with it and would not exchange it for any similar tool.

GEO. D. WEAREN, Esq.—Dear Sir:—I used one of the Albion Combined Spring Tooth Harrows and Broadcast Seeders in putting in my wheat this Fall, and do not hesitate to say that it did the work perfectly.

GEO. D. WEAREN—Dear Sir:—We bought of you a Spring Tooth Sulkey Harrow and Broadcast Seeder, and after having used it in seeding wheat in foul stalk land, we are free to say that the Implement is a good one and gives satisfaction. We regard it superior to any Drill and a perfect success as a Harrow and pulverizer.

MR. GEO. D. WEAREN—Dear Sir:—I am pleased with my Albion Spring Tooth Harrow and Broadcast Seeder, think it is much better and answers many more purposes than a Drill.

GEO. D. WEAREN—Dear Sir:—Have tested your Albion Seeder on clean, plowed land and on the foulest stalk land. It gives better satisfaction than any implement ever used in foul land.

GEO. D. WEAREN—Dear Sir:—I have used one of the above mentioned Seeders, and heartily endorse the statement of Mr. Denny.

GEO. D. WEAREN—Dear Sir:—The Albion Combined Spring Tooth Harrow, Cultivator and Broadcast Seeder is all and even more than you claim for it. I have sown 50 acres of wheat this season in fifty corn land, and it does its work well where no other machine would work at all. My son Jimmie, who is 12 years old, ran the machine all the time, using a team of comparatively small horses, and found no difficulty. I cheerfully recommend it to my farmer friends, for I know a fair trial will convince them of its usefulness eight months in the year.

GEO. D. WEAREN—Dear Sir:—Each one of us having purchased of you one of your Albion Spring Tooth Sulkey Harrows and Broadcast Seeders, we take pleasure in saying that they have given us entire satisfaction and done all that you claimed for them. Prefer them to any wheat Drill we have seen. Sows the wheat evenly and leaves none exposed on the surface; also regard the tool superior to any other as a pulverizer and believe they will prove valuable as Cultivators.

W. E. GANN, M. D., Sole Proprietor, Monticello, Ky. All orders by mail will receive prompt attention. 35-1/2

JOHN P. BAILEY.

C. VAN DYKE, SUKANS SPOONMORE.

THE RICHMOND Dispatch, dem., says: "Total abolition is the watchword. Any thing less would be fatal to the hopes of the tax-payers, to say nothing of the stupidity which the democrats would be guilty of should they become a party to the perpetuation of the internal taxes—taxes never collected before the late war between the States, and which, with the bitter memories of that war, ought now to be buried out of sight forever." This sounds mighty pretty, but it is necessarily tariff protection doctrine with a decided vengeance. It the tax is taken from liquors and tobacco, which now yield a revenue of about $120,000,000 yearly, and if the entire internal revenue system is abolished, the amount required to run the government will have to be raised by increasing the tariff, thereby shutting out foreign competition almost entirely and increasing the price of the necessities of life and reducing that on its luxuries. We should like to see the internal revenue system as now managed thoroughly reformed and simplified by a large reduction in the number of office-holders; but to abolish the tax on whisky at the expense of such articles as sugar and salt is simply preposterous and untenable. Rather raise the revenue on the former articles a hundred per cent. than to further tax our clothing and our food, and abolish if you will the internal tax on every thing else save those two from which the main support of the government should come. If the number of officers in the revenue service were cut down one-half or more, the tax on every thing could be reduced, and we sincerely hope a democratic House will bring about this necessary reform. To pay a man $3 to $4 a day to watch the making of whisky on which the tax does not amount to as much as his wages, or to have the hundreds of unnecessary officers now on the pay-rolls is an expense and an imposition that have been foisted on the people by the republicans, which the democracy owes it to them to abolish.

FRANK SMITH was a Chicago salesman who loved not wisely but too well. The fair but false creature upon whom he had centered his affections would not reciprocate and on Tuesday he blew out what little brains he had with a shot gun after writing a card with these words: "A woman's deceitful love caused me to do this." The girl he left behind him still lives to comment on what a big fool he was, but Christian Johnson, a love-sick swain of Lanesboro, Minn., thought to fix his so that she could do no talking on that or any other subject. Upon being refused by her a third time he drew a pistol and after firing what he supposed was a fatal shot at her heart, he turned the weapon to his own and pulled the trigger. The girl was but slightly hurt, but he, poor fellow, fell too dead to kick. It seems strange that men will make themselves such fools over one girl when there are so many as good fish in the sea as were ever caught, but they will and we could fill this column in telling about similar cases that have occurred within a week.

SOME women are never satisfied, even though fortune smile never so brightly. An Oregon lady, Mrs. Wilson by name, sought and obtained a divorce from her husband last year, on the ground of cruelty and unfaithfulness to his marriage vows. This ought to have satisfied her but it did not, for when the ex-husband came around with many protestations of love and promises of reformation, the place in her heart for him warmed afresh and she gladly consented when he asked her to be his wife again. The old fellow did not seem to be in earnest about the matter however, but refused to take on the yoke again and now the woman is suing him for a breach of promise. Surely she cannot expect much damages, if half that was proved at the trial was so.

Mrs. LANGTRY, the Jersey Lily, may be blessed with a pretty face but if the following description of her lower limbs is a faithful picture, the blessing ends at that: They were quite nondescript; neither fat nor lean, but unmistakably ill-proportioned and disappointing. The knees stood out too boldly. Below them the contour was irregular and not comfortably even with the most lax conception of the lines of beauty. The calves were nearly the same size from the place where they began to where they ended; the ankles measured in circumference as much as the limb did a foot higher up. The lady wore leather shoes, and no small part of the animal's hide from which they were manufactured was required in their construction.

A STATEMENT just issued shows that if National Banks are not the least expensive institutions of the kind that could be devised, they are by far the safest and most reliable, and until a plan that is a decided improvement on them can be presented, we shall most assuredly raise no special row with them. Only three of the National Banks were placed in the hands of receivers during the year ending Nov. 1, and but 87 have been so placed since the commencement of the system. Of these 87, 51 have been finally closed, leaving 36 still in process of settlement. The loss to creditors of these banks during the nearly twenty years that have elapsed since the passage of the National Bank act, as near as can be estimated, has been about $7,000,000. The average annual loss has been, therefore, about $400,000 in the business of corporations having an average capital of about $450,000,000, and which have been responsible for the safe keeping of deposits in their hands averaging constantly over $800,000,000, or about one-twentieth of one per cent. of annual loss to depositors. The total amount paid to creditors of insolvent national banks is $20,945,090 upon provided claims amounting to $29,586,558. The dividends so far paid thus equal about 70 per cent. of the proved claims, 32 banks having paid the claims against them in full. Assessments amounting to $8,101,750 have been made upon stockholders of insolvent national banks for the purpose of enforcing their individual liability under section 5,151 of the Revised Statutes, of which about $3,200,000 have been collected and $534,080.70 during the past year.

AN EXCHANGE makes the timely suggestion that the candidates for Governor let up on national questions and in their speeches discuss only State affairs—the abuses that have arisen in office and how they will endeavor to bring about a reform, public improvements, development of the great resources with which the State abounds, the suppression of crime, &c. We heard enough of national affairs during the Congressional campaign, and as a Governor or his Lieutenant can not possibly have any say in the adjustment of national matters, we trust they will get down to business and talk about what they will have a say in if elected.

EMMETT G. LOGAN, who is to be its managing editor, writes as to the partition of the Cincinnati News will occur to-morrow morning, the telegraph and all other arrangements, after much "labor and pain" having been completed. The paper starts out with a nice little list of over ten thousand subscribers and under circumstances that promise the brightest fulfillment of Gov. Underwood's cherished ambition.

THE INTERIOR JOURNAL is writing facetious and readable biographical sketches of the candidates for Governor. Life is too short for it to tackle the list of aspirants to the office of Lieutenant Governor.—[South Kentuckian. Yes sir, we will not attempt it, old Marchisi's face would be battered out of all recognition were we to use him even to represent half of the candidates of that much coveted, but far from being lucrative, office.

YESTERDAY the Lexington Press of last Sunday and the Cincinnati Commercial of Monday made their first appearance at this office. We've got to murder a mail agent, that's evident, before we get them to do their duty.

"PRAISE THE LORD."

WATERFORD, KENTUCKY, CO. N. Y.,
November 23, 1892.

Dear Interior:
Resuming the narrative of events, let us finish Norwich before beginning Waterford. The last day's services were signally blessed. At the afternoon meeting the basement was crowded for the first time. I gave a lecture on the Book of Revelation, as the history of the times of tribulation, soon to come upon the earth. Speaking wholly without premeditation, the dear LORD, as He always does such sermons, gave power to the word, and on a call to confess the dear name of Jesus as the coming one, the response was unswerving. The first to rise was a sister who said: "By the LORD'S grace I will be light enough to fly when Jesus comes and will meet you there, Bro. James." "And I," "and I," "and I," dropped like hail from every part of the house until nearly every one had spoken. Then on a call to make it unanimous, all in the room sprang promptly to their feet. There were over a dozen preachers present, all heartily joining to swell the tide of joyous confession. At night, the large upper room was crowded. Before sermon, Bro. Tinker made a very handsome speech, more than compensating for the one of Oct. 29, and making all hands feel as good as the former made us feel bad. There were 14 confessions after sermon in response to this approach to "one accord and one mind," as Pentecost invariably follows the full expression and experience of that heavenly condition. Before we separated, one of the brethren stepped forward and surprised me with a little speech and the presentation of a purse, which I received with customary awkwardness, and an hour afterwards, on the train, thought of several nice things I might have said but didn't, and which will be lost to posterity, as so many pretty things are—like the treasures strewing the ocean's bed—that never reach their destination. A funny thing connected with that self-same purse I may as well jot down, as it is characteristic, hurts nobody and would do the principal figure in the story good should he ever read these lines.

"Ye man ken," "as we say in Scotland," [quotation from Nath Woodcock], that we went from Norwich to New London, at the head of Long Island Sound, by the Boston train, running in connection with the Sound steamers. The passenger depot was crowded with dear friends who came to see us off and remained an hour, waiting for a belated train. It came about half past ten, and we were on board the floating palace, named "City of Worcester," by eleven. State-rooms secured and midnight lunch eaten, we went to our comfortable berths and were soon fast asleep. The watchman had been ordered to call us at six the next morning to see the sights on East river as we approach New York. Out in the frosty morning air, a gentleman, whom I had never seen, accosted me as soon as I made my appearance. "In at your meeting last night and much pleased. Glad you had such a good send-off. The purse presentation speech rather too long, though well worded. I hope they treated you liberally." To which I responded, "I don't know what they gave me. I have not opened the purse nor counted its contents." He looked amazed and, I thought, slightly incredulous at this, but there was evidently no more to be said on the subject, unless to make a pointed proposition to count it then and there, which he did not do. But an hour afterwards, as I was paying the clerk for our breakfast, he sided up again, and seeing me with a roll of bills in my hand, his curiosity got the better of his manners once more, as he pleadingly asked, "Have you counted how much they gave you last night?" I again assured him that I had not, having been too busy enjoying the East river sights to think of money or any thing else. This time he seemed slightly paralyzed with astonishment, the incredulous look having vanished and the entire mind absorbed in the wonderful wrangle with the fact of carrying a secret in one's own pocket uninvestigated for nearly 12 consecutive hours. I left him staring, open-eyed and almost open-mouthed. As we left the boat and stepped upon the pier, I saw my interlocuter standing with some friends on the lower deck, and as we passed the group and he looked at me, I recognized a twinkle of unfeigned curiosity in his sharp eye, as plainly asking "Have you counted it yet?" as if the words had been uttered. I hope he did not lose sleep over the unsettled question, for he will never know the contents of that purse unless he ferrets it out on his return to Norwich, which I feel certain he will attempt. And then he will be at rest on that question, dear man.

I will not attempt a description of the superb steamer, the finest I ever saw, tho' I am told that there are others on the Sound more elegant than even the City of Worcester. Nor will I try to sketch the wondrous scene on East river approaching the great city. The stupendous suspension bridge from New York to Brooklyn, beside which that of Cincinnati is a baby in arms, is rapidly approaching completion. Cost fifteen millions already and two more needed to finish.

We hunted up our dear old Danville friends of girlhood and college days, Mr. and Mrs. Davidge. Found them on E. 31st St., and were lovingly welcomed.

Tuesday passed very quickly, and Wednesday morning at eight o'clock we were on the Hudson River Railway, dashing along the river bank at high speed for our new destination. Can there be any thing on this or another continent more wonderful for variety beside this trip up the Hudson? The dear LORD gave his children a parlor car to enjoy it all in, and we took it in with that intensity of pleasure that only one can know who is at perfect peace in Him. Prominent among the unsurpassed views of mountain and river scenery is the Catskill range, crowned by the two noble hotels looking as if built in the very clouds. The legend of those rivals for the favor of the Summer traveling public, as told me by a gentleman on the train, runs thus: Until very recently there was but one, monopolizing the run of custom, and as is generally the case, prosperity and monopoly brought haughtiness and indisposition to please. A very wealthy gentleman from Philadelphia, who made the Catskills his Summer resort, requiring a little chicken broth for his sick child, when there was none in the house, and when the demand to procure it was ungraciously refused, remonstrated in perhaps an angry manner and was finally told in the course of the contention that if he wanted things his own way, the only plan was to build a hotel of his own and then he could have just what he wanted. The word thus hastily and seemingly thrown out suggested a plan of reprisal to the vindictive millionaire, who forthwith went out of the hotel in a brown study, beatified himself and before nightfall had negotiated the purchase of 20,000 acres of the high mountain land adjacent to the landlord's property, selected the site for the new hotel he resolved to put up and in due season had an establishment erected, perfectly eclipsing the old house in every respect. Last Summer, the new hotel had 700 guests—the old one but 75, all told. This means ruin or retirement for the proprietor of No. 1. All for the lack of a little politeness to a guest, and the price of a bowl of chicken soup. Moral—Be courteous and civil and especially look out how you get a man "on his ear," who has a million in his pocket.

Before casting off the tow line from Norwich, let me give the latest figures of that eventful meeting. 110 for soul, 145 accepted of bodily healing and 857 acceptances of specific blessings for the soul at the afternoon services. PRAISE THE LORD for the Norwich meeting. We leave a little host of dear friends there, whom we shall never forget and who will keep us in their hearts of love while time shall last.

We are comfortably lodged at Waterford, wife and I at a nice boarding-house and the girls guests of the Mrs. Thompson, who invited us to come to Waterford. We began last night to a fair audience—room about half full. The moral atmosphere seemed good and wholesome. I think "the lines have fallen to us in pleasant places," from first appearances. Bro. T. is a young pastor, a young husband, handsome and engaging in manner and, I judge, quite a gifted preacher. He has been here but a little while, was brought up a Catholic and, I trust, is not a theologian, but will gracefully bear up, if wrong—seeing he has submitted already to one great assault in his transition from popery to protestantism. But again we shall see what we shall see. The Methodist church, where our meetings are held, is a snug little building, with a seating capacity for about 500. We are all in excellent health and happy in the LORD. Norwich baked beans and Yankee stew fattened us up nicely. Bro. Nash promised to express a can of beans to reach us Saturday evening and remind us of unchanging affection as well as the "land of steady habits." Sister N. was getting along splendidly with her broken limb when we left. Happy day for her when Heaven-sent gifts took the place of human training and bushwhacking, bone-setting sweet succeeded the men of science, who predicted only disaster from the practice of a "charlatan." Ever in Jesus,

AS THE holidays approach the young people are turning their thoughts to gaily and already several enjoyable soirees have been held. At Mr. R. R. Gantry's Tuesday night a very delightful little dance was given in honor of Miss Sue Bedford and at the St. Asaph Wednesday night, the Misses Dinwiddie entertained their friends in a very agreeable manner. The avowed object of the party was to sit up to watch the stars fall, but the stars were entirely forgotten in the other enjoyments of the evening.

THE RAILROAD.—Adair county is wide awake to the importance of securing the proposed railroad, and its committee seems to be composed of men and spirited men. In the Spectator of Wednesday it reports through Messrs. H. C. Baker and J. R. Hindman, among other things, as follows: "Since our appointment considerable work has been done by us and the other gentlemen, and the right of way with the exception of a few neighborhoods, pretty well secured through the county on the probable routes. In donations, cash has been subscribed to over two thousand dollars. A number of subscriptions have been taken to furnish ties for the road; and also privileges of stone and gravel. We think we can secure further donations in cash, and we have also promises of donations in timbered lands."

WANTER.—We want you to bring us apples, potatoes, cabbage, onions, eggs, butter, dressed turkeys—we buy every thing in the vegetable and produce line and pay the highest market price cash for it. McAllister & Bright.

THANKSGIVING DAY broke beautifully and clearly, the snow-covered hills and daisies adding brightness to the rays of the sun. As usual there was but little observance of the day here. The Banks were closed and the Postoffice partially, while an interesting union meeting was held at the Baptist church at 10:30. All churches were kept open and if the owners "praised God from whom all blessings flow," they did so without any outward manifestation.

CARVING A NEGRO.—Old man Matt Hill, sitting on a tree Wednesday morning and proceeded to carve the colored woman who keeps house for him, Esther Shanks. The cut while long and ugly looking is not deep, but the wonder is that he had not killed her on the spot. He was arrested and at his examining trial before Judge Brown, he was held to the Circuit Court on the charge of cutting and wounding with intent to kill and in default of $100 bail, was lodged in jail.

THE TRAIN was an hour late yesterday morning and yet no bulletin announcing the fact was displayed at the depot. The last Legislature passed a law, requiring railroad companies to post a notice, giving such information if a train is as much as 30 minutes late, but it seems that the agent here is rather disposed to pay no attention to such small authority. We propose to test the matter and compel him to accommodate the public to that extent at least, even though it be so exceedingly distasteful to him to recognize their rights in any particular.

THE OLD FRAUD, who by pretending to be in search of an investment in Kentucky lands, has victimized out of a few of our credulous farmers, has at last got to the end of his row, having gone just a little too far in Barren county where he was arrested and lodged in jail as a common swindler. The name he gives there is Capt. John D. Conley, but he is neither when he was in Owsley and wore off a valuable shawl belonging to Mr. J. H. Arnold, after getting free board for several weeks. His age and honest look have helped him wonderfully in his extensive operations.

MARRIAGES.

—John Reed celebrated Thanksgiving yesterday by leading to the altar Miss Belle Hixdale, at the residence of her father, W. B. Hixdale. Mr. Reed is the man who was recently acquitted of the murder of Cam Downey.

—John W. Walls and Miss Sarah Ellen Walls, a pretty little sweet sixteen-year-old, were married yesterday in the Circuit Clerk's office by Rev. I. S. McElroy. W. E. Varner acted as best man, while J. P. Hitley gave the bride away, both taking a kiss from her pouting lips for their part.

—WITHERS.—As foreshadowed by a dispatch referred to in our issue of Tuesday, the worst fears were realized, for a second message told that James Withers was no more, his death having occurred at Belhaven College, W. Va., at 1 P. M. on the 29th. His disease was typhoid pneumonia, of which he suffered two weeks, and although watched over by kind friends and tenderly nursed by a loving sister, Mrs. Mary Bowman, nothing availed. Cruel, unrelenting death had claimed him for his own, and decreed that in the morning of life, when apparently entering upon a career that promised so much for usefulness and good, he must yield up his young life, which was so long and intertwined with those of his father and sisters, and leave them to sorrow, almost broken-hearted, at their loss. James Withers was the only son of Horace S. Withers, Esq., and was born April 10, 1867. When 10 years of age he gave his heart to his God and united with the Christian Church of this place. Always a manly little fellow, he had since entering Belhaven College, a year or more ago, developed so much beauty and force of character that it was hard to realize that he was but a little over 15 years of age, and his father, who had always idolized him, built bright hopes of the future for him, whom he had so fondly trusted should perpetuate his honorable name. But man proposes and God disposes, and the gray-haired parent has looked for the last time on the face and form he loved so well and seen his fondest brightest hopes dashed out forever. When he arrived at his bedside on Saturday last, the brightening of his eyes told that he recognized his father, but the tongue had ceased to perform its functions and unconsciousness followed in a short time. His life at the college has been a most exemplary one, and principal and professors unite in testifying to his gentle deportment and Christian virtues. His afflicted father and sisters, then, grieve not as those without hope, for they know that in the mansion of the blest he awaits them, and with the redeemed stands ready to greet them on the other shore. May they find consolation in this and in the sympathy of loving friends, who sorrow with them in their great bereavement. The remains arrived last evening, and this morning after services at the home of Mr. W. L. Williams at 10:30, will be laid by his mother and sister in his Buffalo Cemetery.

BOYLE COUNTY.

THEY WILL MARRY.

Licenses have been issued for the marriage of Overton L. Watkins to Miss Sallie Harmon; John T. Walston to Miss Mary C. Wade; Isaac M. Myers of Bryantville to Miss Sallie Welch of Danville. All on the 29th. Next week there will be another—68 to 37. Some girls marry for love, some for gold but this one gets the blues.

FIRST AND LAST.

The first entertainment ever given in James Hall was by Alf Burnett's troupe; and as the Hall is to be connected with Robertson's dry goods store, his performance on Monday night will be the last. Although these happenings there is an interval of sixteen years, it is spoken of as a coincidence. The local Board of Health has

KNIPPED THE AIR.

Around Bell Seminary and says there is no more danger from scarlet fever. The room in which the patient was quarantined have been thoroughly cleansed and fumigated and as no new cases have appeared in the community for the last ten days or more, Mr. and Mrs. Allen think there will be no risk in opening the school on Monday next. So let the Susies and Lizzies and Kates and Marys and Sallies all come back..... The railroad men often speak of

WILD TRAINS.

And the two train on the Cincinnati Southern must be of that kind. It is advertised to appear at Danville at 2 minutes after 2 P. M., but is more liable to come any other time than that.

THE PARTY.

Given by the girls at James Hall on Tuesday night brought together as handsome and elegant a crowd of young ladies and gentlemen as ever assembled in Danville. As dancing was to be the order, Price's Orchestra was on the stage and some severity exhibited in the waltzing of the floor. The general chaperon was Mr. and Mrs. Julian Goodwin, Mr. and Mrs. Will Rowland, Mr. Mrs. W. G. Dunlap, Dr. and Mrs. Warren, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. McFarren, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Cecil. An elegant supper had been prepared at Glicker's and during the intermission it was partaken of. The girls deserve all the nice things that have been said about them; or perhaps it would be best to sum it all up in the apt quotation by Miss Ethelica in the gallery:

"IT WAS BEAUTIFUL."

I will try to tell you with whom, and I believe I got them all. Walker Fry chaperoned Out Metcalf with Miss Sophia Bright; Jim Buckden Guest with Miss Lee McElroy; Farnsworth Hurdley with Miss Mary Dunlap; Will Dade Walsh with Miss Nannie Bright. Dr. Hogle chaperoned Stork Dick Dunlap with Miss Mary Strahan; Henry N. Y. Evans with Miss Mary Irvine; Boots Tonia with Miss Mattie Kenney; J. Sharrow Hurdley with Miss Mattie Bent; Billy Bell with Mrs. Honta of Cincinnati; Doc Barber with Miss Della Brown of Unionville; Sam Warren watched over Clay Samuels with Miss Pickle Metcalf—Coley Coles was in that

RELIGIOUS.

—Rev. J. M. Bruce will preach at Crab Orchard Sunday morning next.

—Prof. Brooks of the Red House Observatory, in behalf of astronomical science and astronomy, asks that prayers be offered Sunday next in all the churches for clear weather on the 5th of December, the date of the transit of Venus.

—The earnest, eloquent sermons of Rev. H. Allen Tupper at the Baptist church have already produced a decidedly religious feeling in the community, that is telling nightly in the drawing of souls to the Cross. We went to press before the close of the service last night and our report therefore does not include its harvest, but to this writing there have been 19 confessions and additions by letter. Omitting those whose names we gave last issue, the following is the list: Misses Fannie Hix, Nellie (Hix); Kate Hix, Ida Hixler, Eliza Rott, Lizzie Farris, Belle Hutchison; Mrs. J. E. Farris, Mrs. Kate Johnson, W. M. Bright, Sam'l Hardin, Rott, Hall, J. H. McAllister, Jno. Dinwiddie, Joe Rott, Jr., J. M. Cooper and Miss Sara Warner.

LAND, STOCK AND CROP.

—Ben. F. Eubanks sold to A. S. Myers a lot of butcher hogs at 6 cents.

—Joe Faulkner of Boyle took the premium on cattle corn at Commissioner C. E. Bowman's show at Frankfort.

—Dr. Tabler bought 30 fat hogs from J. E. Bruce at 6 cents and there have been numerous other sales at that figure this week.

—J. E. Bruce put 200 lbs. a head in 70 days on a lot of hogs he fattened for Henry Logan, and got 61 cents per pound for it.

—John M. Hall sold to R. H. Crossfield of Lawrenceburg, 15 scrub cattle at $10 and 71 scrub ewes at $3. H. N. Ware sold to same 20 scrub cattle weighing 855 lbs., at 4 cents.

—Warren Graves of Scott county sold to Simon Logg of Cincinnati, 68 head of cattle averaging 1,525 pounds, at $5.00 per cow. Twenty yearling males sold in same county at $7.50.

—J. H. Bean tells us that he has sold since the first of June over 100 pounds of butter, the produce of one cow, besides supplying his family of four persons with milk and butter. (Mt. Sterling Sentinel.)

—In Cincinnati, the cattle market is quiet at 11@12 cents for common; 4@4 1/2 cents for good to choice butchers; 4 1/2@6 for common to choice shippers; 3 1/2@4 for stockers and feeders. The favorable packing weather has given tone to the hog market, and the figures are higher. Selected butcher and heavy hogs, $6.50@7.50; packers, $6.00@6.50; common, $5.35@6.10. The demand for sheep is light at 24@41 cents. Stock sheep, 21@31. Lambs are dull at 34@35.

—W. R. Sphar raised this year on his Stoner farm 23 acres of corn that averaged 20 1/2 bushels per acre by actual measurement. D. G. Barrow has rented the Sutton farm of 100 acres at $5.50 per acre for the ensuing year. He cultivates 70 acres. Frewitt & Gaskill have purchased 600 barrels corn in the Thompson Station neighborhood at $2.10 per barrel in the field. About 300 head of cattle on the streets county court day; the best brought 5 cents, some good feeders sold at 4 to 4 1/2 cts. (Clark Democrat.)

The Country Gentleman is the leading journal of American agriculture. In amount and practical value of contents, in extent and ability of correspondence, in quality of paper and style of publication, it occupies the first rank. It is believed to have no superior in either of the three chief divisions of Farm Crops and Processes, Horticulture and Fruit-Growing, Live Stock and Dairying.

While it also includes all minor departments of rural interest, such as the Poultry Yard, Entomology, Bee-keeping, Greenhouse and Garden, Veterinary Medicine, Farm Questions and Answers, Freeland Reading, Domestic Economy, and a summary of the News of the Week. Its Market Reports are unusually complete, and much attention is paid to the Prospects of Crops, as showing light upon the most important of all questions—When to Buy and when to Sell. It is liberally illustrated and is intended to supply in a continually increasing degree, and in the best sense of the term, a Live Agricultural Newspaper.

The Volume of the Country Gentleman for 1892 was greatly ENLARGED by increasing its size from 16 to 20 pages weekly, but the terms still continue as follows, when paid strictly in advance: One copy one year, $3.00; four copies, $10.00, and an additional copy for the year free to the sender of the club.
